FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

United Progressive Party launches fully featured website – first of its kind in Dominica

A New Era of Transparency, Accessibility, and Community-Driven Politics Begins Today

ROSEAU, Commonwealth of Dominica, December 9, 2025 – The United Progressive Party (UPP) launched its new official website today, a digital platform designed to improve how citizens access information, engage with policy development, and interact with the party.

The new site, available at www.uppdominica.com, provides citizens with direct access to the party's founding documents and allows supporters to donate, register their membership, or sign up to volunteer – all in one place. The platform also features built-in translation support so Dominicans in different parts of the world are included and can participate.

"This isn't just a website—it is a digital town hall, a policy laboratory, and a movement headquarters all in one," according to Joshua Francis, party leader. "It marks a new chapter for Dominican politics by allowing donations, membership and volunteer registration, and giving public access to our constitution - building a more open and inclusive movement. "We are tearing down the walls between elected officials and the communities they serve, creating unprecedented transparency and dialogue. Every Dominican who wants to join, support, or get involved are encouraged to do so because real change happens when people speak up and act together. We are tearing down the walls between elected officials and the communities they serve, creating unprecedented transparency and dialogue."

Key features of the platform include:

- A secure online donation portal, making UPP the only party in Dominica offering digital donations directly on its website.
- Public display of the full party constitution, giving voters transparency into the rules, structure, and values guiding the organization.
- Membership and volunteer registration forms, enabling citizens to join or take part in the party's work from anywhere.
